A Proclamation

I wish to remind the people of Wisconsin that June 14th is the anniversary of the birth of the American flag. It was adopted by an act of Congress, June 14th, 1777, and marked the beginning of a new nation.

In the one hundred forty-one years of its existence it has not failed humanity and has brought under its dominion a mighty nation that commands the respect of the civilized world.

This free government which out fathers established for us is again to danger and this time it is threatened by a foreign foe. We are engaged it necessary to win the war and that we will accept no neace terms that are not a full compliance with the American nurpose in the war. Let us fully sustain and give our confidence to the president of the United States and his president of the United States and his pides upon whom rests the responsibility for the success of the war, and finally, let us prepare ourselves to meet our losses and temporary reverses with courage. All these promises and resolutions will be best observed if made under the American flac.

Yesterday was the last day for filing applications for saloon licenses and witle many people expected that there would be a decrease in applications the same number applied for permits. Forty-one applications were filed for permits to operate saloons and three brewing companies applied for licenses.

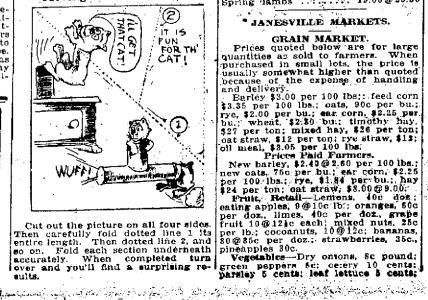

The personnel of the owners remains the same as last year and although many of the surrounding cities have voted dry, the saloonkeepers of those places have not sought to come to this city and get a license. The only new application received was from James Kelly, North Academy street, who has been refused a license on two former occasions.

rolling around under all kinds of road and speed conditions, with the heavy weight of a big car and the added strain, frequently, of a capacity load. Ordinary tires give ordinary service under these conditions.

Firestone Cord Tires give extra-ordinary service to the owners of heavy and medium weight cars, because they have been specially designed with unusual service conditions in mind.

The special cord structure and extra thick side wall that form the carcass or "frame-work" of the tire are as skillfully planned and as capable of serving their purpose as the skeleton of a skyscraper.

On this foundation is laid the tread of Firestonecompounded rubber, tough and resilient, and specially designed to give added speed with safety and long, satisfactory mileage.

AT THE PRESENT TIME when conservation and thrift are uppermost in the minds of all thinking men and women, we particularly recommend Firestone Cord Tires. Let the Firestone dealer show you a cross section sample and explain further their economy.

THEIR OWN SALVATION.

"Of all the insidious movements to help Germany, to save her face and to let the militarist party escape with a compromise peace and the potenthallthe of future war, the proposa that we should send men and money to Russia, across the Pacific and waster of Siberia, is the most dangerons. Not a man or a dollar can be used for such a purpose without weakening the western front. Every American soldier landed in Viadivos-tok would be an asset to Germany, and those who advocate such an en-terprise are simply playing the Ger-man name," says an exchange. "A Eussian correspondent of this paper, interested industrially in all that the revolution in Russia has suggested that something of this kind should be done; because, he says, the total number of Rolsheviki only a fraction of one per cent of the population of Russia, and they are not even a party, but a mob which happens to be in control of the arter-lal centers, like Petrograd and Mos-

"It must be obvious that he proves too much. If two hundred millions of people, assuming that to be the present population of Russin, cannot squelch a sporadic two hundred thousaint, they do not deserve redemption. The dight for liberty, as all history shows without an instance to the contracy, comes from within and never lar event occurred and without. Let Hercules himself do asked the same question. without, "Let Herenes Himself do what he may," he cannot make a man walk faster than the man's muscles permit. If the man is lackling in courage he cannot make him walk at all. "But the weakest argument is that Cormany will take advantage, and is taking advantage, of the element of time to conclude for private interests, with a government backing, farreaching control of the natural products of Russia. How could this be tets of Russia. How could this be offset by any expedition we could make, with a line of supply and support extending half round the world. dependent upon a single-track rail ray for many thousand miles, with treachery in the rear in every mile? These agreements can be ultimately canceld, but not by any insane advance through Siberia, which is just the futile distribution of strength Gernany desires at present. They will be anceled on the German side of the Rhine, as part of the campaign on

"To take a simple illustration showing how imperfect the layman's grasp of strategy is, let us suppose a steel plate with a bulge in it. Anyone ig-norant of such product would take a norant of such product would take a heavy hammer and strike the bulge. He would invitably put the entire plate out of kilter. The expert would strike everywhere else. The Russian people have made their bed and must necessarily be invited to lie upon it. They can so organize their strength that they can remake at to better udvertage. But if we have to redeen vantage. But if we have to redeen them in spite of themselves every vent and every soldier must be deliv-ered on the western front."

SCARING US TO DEATH.

The only thing fregular about the attack of German U-boats on our shipping. Is that they falled to have it come the same day they were making their big drive in France. It will be communicated that when they drove before on March 21, they began the ram day bombarding Paris with their 75-mile gun, and started their "subs" on a special attack. Their theory is that by making these examples of their by making these examples of frightfulness all in one spectacular attack, they can terrify the entire world into submission.

The American people, however, are used to bluff games. They have met hullles before. They refuse to be furned from their purposes by efforts to search them out of their bods. They will not be built dozed nor terrogled. will not be bull-dozed nor terrorized. The Cormans should keep this crude stuff for the easily fooled Russians.

There will be some shipping losses on this side of the ocean, but they need not be heavy. They will be larrely due to carelesaness on the part of our sea captains. No doubt if the I builts get thick in American waters, it will be necessary to have constwise merchant ships convoyed, and regu-Lirly petrolled lines of navigation es-

The ships that are sunk will be mostly those that recklessly think they can Ignore warnings and take thingers in dangerous territory. The transports coursing our boys will be penetically rafe, as there will be chough destroyers at least to watch over their coverses.

The Chouts keep carefully away from our rolle little war chasers. The transports that have been torpedoed were those couldn't home, or in one case off the north coast of Treland outable from the regular course to Frence. So let not the home folks worry much on this score.

GET TOGETHER.

The great sloan of any community that saccords is "not together." Now that Janesville has a Chamber of Commerce whose directorate is composed of men who represent the cos-mopolitan interests of the city, re-gardless of interests, the cry of "gettogether" is needless. Janesville has gotten together. It stands for a bigger and better community. The prospect of the installation of a new factory here, employing hundreds of men shortly and thousands later on, means double the population, shortly. This means new conditions must arise and the Chamber of Commerce is the or gunization to handle it. Back up the organization to your utmost and it you are not a momber join now and have a part in the great work. It is work this rehabilitation of the city to meet new conditions. It is a work that confronts the new directors of the Chamber of Commerce, and the city will win in the end. Got busy, and above all "get togother." The hammer has been buried and let us forget it ever existed. The future is what we must look to, not, the past.

Rockford will have a truly military Fourth of July celebration this year when the soldiers at Camp Grant march in review. That is the kind of when the soldiers at Camp Grant march in review. That is the kind of a Fourth this nation needs. Not side shows and hip-hip-hurrah sort of events. Thank fortune Janesville is not planning for anything for there is enough to keep us busy here this year without any special attractions.

Stop and consider what a wonderful trip you can take up and down the Rock river when you plan your summer vacation. There are plenty of lish that have never been caught whiting for your book and the places of interest are so numerous you will never become tired of the change of

Have you bought a thrift stamp yet? If not, got the habit and keep it up. Thrift stamps, W. S. S. they call them now, mean so many more utilious loaned your good old Uncle Sam instead of borrowing from the "Uncle with the three balls," as man, have done in the past.

This war is a hit closer than three thousand miles away just now. Perhaps the opinion of certain persons in high places as regards Villa in Mexico being like Washington at Valley Forge is also changed. Where are those submaring buses any are those submaring buses are those submaring buses and the second submaring buses are submaring buses and the second submaring buses are submaring buses. those submarine bases anyway if not in Mexico?

RAIRROAD REST CAMPS ARE GREAT BENEFIT

New York, June 13.—Glimpses into the railroad rest stations for American troops in France established by the American Red Cross and a reflection of some of the happiness of the soldiers served in these stations are given in letters received from the Red Cross agents in France. "Gee, this looks almost like home." is the common expression of the travel-wearled soldiers as they settle down and relax in some pretty rest station where they have obtained a hot shower bath and a good meal after hours of journeying in crowded trains. These places seem more like ins. These places seem more like me to the soldiers because they are lited upon by American girls. Here home to the soldiers because they are waited upon by American girls. Here they often pause to write a letter home to mother or sweetheart as well as to enjoy milk, butter, jams, puddings and desserts "just like those mother used to make."

One of the most interesting letters comes to the Red Cross from Mrs. Belmont Tiffany, a New York social leader has been engaged in the or-

Science Solves the Butter Problem with Butter Made from the White Meat of Cocoanuts

Just when the price of butter threatens to make it an unattainable luxury, science perfects TROCO, the new vegetable butter made from the white meat of the cocoanut.

It tastes exactly like the finest creamery butter and is even more wholesome and pure.

It is churned with fresh Pasteurized milk to give true butter flavor.

Because of old laws, made before this discovery, we are compelled to label this nut-made butter as oleomargarine. But it contains no oleo oils—no hog or beef fat, nor any preservatives. TROCO is simply vegetable fats, churned with milk for the butter taste.

Yet this appetizing combination costs, no more than does the best grades of oleomargarine.

Can't Be Told From Butter

TROCO has all the good qualities of fine creamery butter. The only difference you will notice is the cost.

It is as nutritious as cream butter, and as easily digested. It possesses the fuel value needed for energy.

TROCO when served has butter's golden color, because we supply the same vegetable coloring used by all butter makers.

Served on your table, without explanation, no one can tell the difference.

Goes Farther In Cooking

TROCO, used in cooking, gives the same results as butter, except that it goes farther. Cooks should remember this and reduce the amount.

It makes such cake as has not been known since butter soared in price.

It allows the old-fashioned "rich cooking" that builds up the family health.

Your Dealer Can Supply TROCO -

If your dealer doesn't already keep TROCO, ask him to get it for you. Tell him you must have this new-day successor to butter.

Insist until he secures a supply. For TROCO solves one of the biggest problems presented by our high food prices -

-The problem of serving appetizing, wholesome butter at a moderate cost. Made by the NOTICE: Under the less, all butter substitutes firmt be branded Oleomargarine. That lew was peaced before TROCO was invented. So the TROCO package is branded "Oleomargarine," though there is no clook in it. All butter substitutes must pay an extra tax it colored. So the color for TROCO comes in a capsule. Add it yourself, as you do with Oleomargarine.

The time has come when it is necessary to obtain a correct list of the boys who are in the service, both army and navy, from this city and Rock county. To do this means considerable work, but it is necessary and the Cazette is going to do it.

Last Christmas the County Council of Defense had occasion to send packages to the boys from this city who joined the colors and it was a decult to secure the addresses of a good many. There is no complete list and there are boys from Rock county represented in nearly every branco of the service.

In preparation for possible air raids on New York by German air raids on New York by German air raids on New York by German air planes, the police commissioner has ordered all display lights in the city at night dimmed. This will eliminate landmarks which otherwise would guide the bombing squadron and make easy marks at which to aim bombs. The Woolworth building, towering high in the air and usually brilliantly illuminated with a scientific lighting system, will be one of the buildings dimmed. The Statue of Liberty probably will be darkened.

LOST-A CAT

BY VINCENT Q. PERRY.

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspa-per Syndicate.)

Bart Chalmers had not spoken to Pauline Randall for over a year. Of course, when they had the quarrel that had caused all the trouble he believed he didn't love her and, for the first two or three months, could even pass her on the street without feeling a desire to renew the friendship—for Bart had pride, too much pride. That was why they had quarreled in the first place. The first inkling he had that he really loved her came the time he saw her at a dance with another boy-a fine-looking fellow, too, who monopolized her company for every dance. She seemed so wrapped up in her new escort that she didn't appear to notice that he was having every dance with pretty little Bess Keener. Even if she had noticed it she would know that there was nothng to fear-for Bess' reputation as a fickle firt was widely known - Bart reflected afterward.

Although their quarrel had separated them for six months, he thought that it could be straightened out in some way. It required courage to speak to Pauline again. How would he go about it? Before he had decided a "Lost and Found" advertisement in the morning paper opened a road for him. "Lost-an orange Angora kitten, half-grown; answers to name of Angela; reward; apply Miss Pauline Randall, 347 Redan street!" The minute he read it he realized the opportunity offered him.

At first he thought of going out in search of the stray kitten, but after contemplating, hit upon a better plan. After making a few inquiries he learned that Mrs. Regan O'Dell dealt in Angora kittens, and lost no time in searching her out.

Mrs. O'Dell had an orange Angora kitten that she assured him was only half-grown. He paid the price she usked for it without a moment's deliberation, although it was a steep one.

It was a timid Bart that approached Pauline's home, the kitten in a basket under his arm. There was a man with a basket just leaving the house. Just his luck, he thought, the pet had been returned. His spirits rose when he saw a yellow cat escape from the basket and the man start in pursuit of it.

There was a line-up of people with cats in baskets ahead of Bart. If the right one was in one of those baskets he was done for, but it was too late to back out. One by one the people were taken into the reception room where, apparently, Pauline was waiting to inspect the contents of their baskets, and one by one they came out still with the cats. Bart straightened his tie and gripped his basket firmly as a servant showed him to the room where the inspections had been held.

Pauline, seated in the center of the room, looked worn out. She looked up at his ëntrance.
"Why-why!" she gasped, as she jumped to her feet in surprise. "Why, Bart-Mr. Chalmers!"

"I have a cat here," Bart hastened, as he clutched at his breast to discover if his heart had flown to the roof of his mouth.

"Yes; of course." Pauline's surprise still had the best of her, but she was doing her best to appear unconcerned. "I have had so many brought here today. Please let me see the one you have." No sooner had Bart taken it from the basket than she had it in her arms. "Angela, dear," she cried, as she hug-ged it to her, "where have you been.

you naughty kitten? Oh. Bart, where did you get my cat? I thought she was lost for good." "I-I-just found it." Bart stammered, almost overcome by the success of his plan. "I did not think it was your cat—that is, not until I saw your ad-there for nearly an hour." "How good of you. I would not have let you stay there for an instant had l known." It was surprising how many things they found to talk about. The restored "Angela" was forgotten for the time being, but it made itself comfortable on Pauline's lap, where, most likely, it would have remained undisturbed for some time had not the servant ushered another person with a cat into the her way of telling him that there could be no friendship between them again.

"I will go then," he said, as he arose. His feelings were expressed in his tone.

"Sit down. I want you to, stay," Pauline smiled, as she stretched out her hand to him. "Angela has brought me back the only friend I ever really cared for. Don't you think "Happiness" a good name for this new cat?"

COMMENCEMENT WEEK.

The performance of Shakespeare's "Tempet." Tuesday evening in the college gymnasium recalled the best performances of the "Midsummer Night's Dream," twice given by the students at Mitton, once in 1905 and again in 1912. The souvenir program given out to the audience presented an interesting account of the plays performed at commencement beginning with the "Midsummer Night's Dream" in 1905, and continued ever since. Eleven plays have been given. There have been fourteen performances, "Hamlet," "As You Like It," and "A Mid-summer Night's Dream" having been given twice. COMMENCEMENT WEEK and "A Mid-summer Night's Dream" having been given twice.

The credit for a remarkably successful presentation of a play not often given, and one very difficult to present on account of the magic or supernatural elements required, is largely due to Miss Anna Post, who was called very suddenly to take charge of the preparation of the play when Professor Stringer entered the Y. M. C. A. war service. The large audience of over seven hundred people gave her an ovation, calling her before the curtain at the beginning of the last act, when she was presented the last act, when she was presented with a testinionial of flowers. The

the last act, when she was presented with a testimonial of flowers. The students gave her generous support and the result was a rendition of the play truly remarkable. The stage management of Arthur Curtis and the light effects, arranged by H. O. Burdick with the assistance of M. M. Lanphere, the efficient janitor of the college, made the difficult task successful and the effects really beautiful. All the parts were well sustained and the performance was smooth. The lines were intelligently read and the enunciation in most cases was clearly audible all over the Jarge building. W. V. Holliday made a very satisfactory Prospero, dignified and noble, even if his anger was not as fierce as it might have been. All the men characters were creditably taken, G. W. Coon, especially, making a very natural old Gonzalo. Miss Helen Shaw was a beautiful and naive a very natural old Gonzalo. Miss Helen Shaw was a beautiful and naive Miranda, captivating the audience by her simple grace. L. C. Shaw, as the jester, Trinculo, was inimitable and Floyd Ferrill never deviated an instant from his character as Stephano, the drunken butler. These, with Callban, acted by Professor J. N. Daland, made such a trio as Shakespeare himself would have praised. Professor Daland's Callban was absolutely perfect and contributed as much as anything to a clear understanding of the play. Miss Goldle Davis played the distruit part of Ariel to perfection, making her invisibility intelligible and never failing to be the airy sprite that controlled the whole play. The diancers and shadows that made the vision called up by Prospero's magic wand enchanted the nudlence. More effective contrasts and more beautiful effects have never been presented on the stage in this neighborhood than those which charmed the audience last night.

This afternoon there is a ball game between the college team and a team composed of alumni. This evening will be given the annual concert. Tomorrow morning the commencement exercises will be held at ten o'clock. The address will be given by President Melvin A. Brannon. Li. D., of Beloit college, who will speak on "Life's Relations."
